Many Covina Folks Make Trip to Seattle During Past Summer

Mrs. M. Havlin and her daughters, Misses Beatrice and Frances, returned Friday from a delightful vacation trip—one that is proving very popular this summer with Covinites. They left here the seventh of August on the H. F. Alexander, going to Seattle. While there they made a side trip to Mt. Rainier, where they remained over night at the Paradise Inn. They also made the trip to Vancouver and Vancouver Island, where they called on friends and went sightseeing.

On their return, also on the H. F. Alexander, they stopped one day with friends in Oakland. On the return trip from Vancouver to San Francisco Mr. and Mrs. Tom Finch were also aboard the H. F. Alexander. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Damerel were also on the passenger list of this pleasure boat.

The Covina people are loud in their praise of this wonderful trip. The boat trip and service is splendid and the country is so wonderful they are all planning another trip in the future.

Officials in Warning Against Shooting Across Highways

Local police officials of the city and county have asked the Argus to call attention to the state law prohibiting the shooting of firearms across a public highway or adjacent to a habitation. Several accidents have occurred recently, the local officers say, from promiscuous shooting. They state that it has become necessary to enforce this law rigidly, and any and all violators will be arrested.

COVINA SCHOOLS OPEN SEPTEMBER 14

The Covina high school and Covina grammar school will both open on September 14th. All vacancies on the faculties have been filled. Principals Ben S. Millikan and Boyden G. Hall, who are both away on vacation trips, will be home in time to see that everything is in shape for the beginning of the new term.

Liquor Transporter Pays $300 Fine Into Covina City Funds

The trial of W. A. Burgess in Recorder Chapman's court last Friday morning was a tame affair. A jury had been summoned, but the defendant pleaded guilty to the illicit transportation and possession of liquor and was fined $300, with an alternative of 90 days in jail, by Judge Chapman.

It will be recalled that Burgess, while endeavoring to evade Marshal Barry, some three or four weeks ago, collided with an automobile at the intersection of San Bernardino road and Citrus avenue. Twenty-three bottles of gin and moonshine, which were taken from his auto and had been held as evidence, were dumped into the gutter in front of the city hall at the conclusion of the trial. Attorney Seth Colver acted for the prosecution and Robert J. Adcock, of the California building, Los Angeles, represented Burgess. Boozie Test Officer C. C. Kimbrell from Azusa was also present.

Three New Homes On North Fourth Street Completed

With two new homes just completed on North Fourth street and another under construction, the block is being transformed into homes for the younger business and professional men of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edgett, of the Covina Dye and Rug Works, have a beautiful four-room bungalow, with hard-wood floors and every modern convenience. The exterior is covered with shakes, while a bungalow door, with small plate glass openings adds a finished touch. The large living-room leads into the bedroom at one end, and from the other end opens into the kitchen. The furnishings of this room have been artistically chosen, the velvet rugs, overstuffed furniture and window drapes all blending in color.

The usual recesses for ironing boards and brooms are found in the kitchen. Here the touch of blue pervades, in the linoleum and the dainty breakfast nook, conspicuous for its border of bluebirds. The bedroom, with many casement windows, is always cool, and the bathroom provides every comfort for the home. The back screen porch leads to the garage in the rear. With the addition of the lawn, nothing nicer could be desired for a small family. Mr. Edward Hubbard was the builder of this residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cornet are now occupying a smart six-room stucco house, in a pretty Spanish design, just north of the Edgett home. With the finishing touches to the exterior, an iron gate at both the vestibule and the doorway, from which a narrow walk will lead to the rear of the house, it will be a replica of larger homes of the same type.

One enters the diningroom from the livingroom through a wide doorway, with open niches on each side. The kitchen is large and commodious, and the breakfast room all that could be desired. Two bedrooms, with connecting bath, are well lighted with drop and side fixtures. The back screen porch, containing double enamel tubs, electric heater and washer, is as well finished as the kitchen. From here the steps lead on to a broad cement floor which extends back to the double garage, also of stucco to correspond with the house. The casement windows with fringed shades, and a polished brass lock on the colonial door are distinctive features of this home.

Mr. Harold Gaudin, who is instructor of stloyd and manual training in the Covina grammar school, is building a five-room bungalow on the east side of North Fourth street, the first lot north of Mrs. Lettie Stombaugh's new home.

MR. AND MRS. DAMEREL HOME FROM TRIP NORTH

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Damerel returned last Friday from a two weeks' trip via the S. S. Alexandria to Seattle. After Mr. Damerel had attended the convention of the managers of the Winnet System of Industrial Bankers, as representative of the consolidated Azusa and Monrovia branches, several auto trips were taken to Vancouver and other points. They were the guests at Everett, Washington, of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bird, looking over the lumber interests with which Mr. Bird is connected as head of the Cascade Lumber & Shingle company, and also of the Stephens-Bird Lumber & Logging company, producers of lumber from their own forests.

FINCH PARTY HOME FROM TRIP TO PACIFIC NORTHWEST

Thomas Finch, of the firm of Finch Brothers, jewelers, and his wife and family have returned from a two weeks' motor trip through the northwest Pacific states visiting all points of interest in Oregon and Washington and as far north as Vancouver and Victoria.

On their first day out from Covina, they made a record run of 507 miles, reaching Marysville before 7 o'clock in the evening. In Oregon the trip was somewhat spoiled by the dense smoke which prevailed over the state, due to forest fires. It was difficult to see further than two blocks ahead at any point on the road. By the time they reached Vancouver, heavy rains had fallen and the fires in the Canadian territory were well under control.

Mr. Finch states that it has been one of the most enjoyable vacations he has ever spent. He drove his Nash sedan and experienced neither tire nor engine trouble. The party were so delighted with the trip that they expect to duplicate it next year.

El Monte in Action on New Highway Through Valley

The last obstacle in the way of the completion of the new Central boulevard between El Monte and Baldwin Park, and which is a part of the great highway to extend through the San Gabriel valley, was removed this week when the El Monte city trustees made arrangements to move the signal tower which stands in the right-of-way of the proposed road.

The city attorney was instructed to enter into a contract with the Pacific Electric railway for the moving of the signal tower, which stands at the intersection of the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific, to a point north of the present location. The total cost of moving the tower and installing gates, as recently recommended by the state railroad commission, will amount to about $4,625.

Plans are underway to complete the new highway so that it may be used for traffic early in 1926. It is stated by local and county officials.

Last Sad Rites For Mrs. Dan Reichard

The last rites for Mrs. Daniel Reichard, held Friday afternoon, August 21st, at the Holy Trinity church, were largely attended by friends from various parts of Southern California. The pallbearers were Messrs. C. W. Potter, J. R. Elliott, E. G. Prather, W. M. Griswold, R. M. Douglas and Ralph Crook.

Rev. Robert Gould, rector of the Glendora Episcopal church, conducted the services. Mrs. John Brunjes and Mrs. Brown of Glendora and Mr. A. Stone of Azusa, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Damerel, sang "Resurrection Morn" and "Asleep in Jesus," and at the close rendered the Nunc Dimittis.

The floral offerings were exceptionally beautiful, the casket being covered with a carpet of carnations and maiden hair ferns, speaking volumes for the high esteem in which this gracious lady was held by her host of friends.

HELEN HERBERT ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE ENGAGEMENT

The engagement of Miss Helen Herbert to William Humphrey of Baldwin Park was announced at a birthday party given by Mr. Humphrey at her home in Baldwin Park Tuesday evening. Some sixty relatives and friends of the young people from around the valley, the beaches and Los Angeles were present to aid in the birthday celebration. Although the news of the engagement was not a complete surprise to their intimate friends, the date of the wedding, October 21st, and Miss Herbert's birthday was not known. Miss Herbert formerly made her home with her mother in Covina, but for the past year they have resided in Azusa.

Among the guests from Covina who enjoyed an evening of dancing and a late supper were Mrs. Rhoda Steinfeld and daughter, Marian, Misses Marjory Wolfarth and Corrine Jacoby, Stanley Maxson, Glenn Hutchison and Mr. and Mrs. E. Hutchison.

BALDWIN PARK MAN DIES BY CUTTING THROAT

J. H. Stewart, a resident of Baldwin Park, committed suicide Tuesday evening, between eight and nine o'clock, by cutting his throat. It is said that the man was despondent over family troubles. At the time his wife was at the home of C. E. Woodrum, a relative, where they, with two sons, had stayed on their arrival from Texas some three months or more ago.

Aged Man Drowns Through Accident By Falling in Cistern

George B. Desellon, 76 years of age, met his death last Sunday at the ranch of Miss Lucille Ray, on Ben Lomond avenue, from accidental drowning. Desellon, who had a son in Los Angeles and a daughter, Mrs. J. G. Griffith, in Pasadena, residing at 787 North Michigan avenue, had lived at the Ray ranch for the past four months. He was crippled with partial paralysis, but with the aid of his cane walked about the yard. With the idea of being helpful, it was his custom to keep watch of the cistern and advise Miss Ray when it needed refilling.

Miss Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ray, missed the aged man at about 3 p.m. and, with the ranch hand, E. Cooper, searched over the ranch and in the wash. After the return of Miss Ray, who had been away for the day, at 11 p.m., Mr. Cooper went into the pump house and noticed the hat and cane of the deceased beside the cistern. Further investigation revealed the body, which was removed to Custer & Christiansen's undertaking parlors. His watch ceased to run at 4 p.m. No inquest was held. Interment was at Forest Lawn cemetery Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Theater Proprietors Home From Trip Through the East

Mr. and Mrs. George Leonardy, proprietors of the Covina theater, have returned from a sixty days' trip through the middle-western, eastern and southern states. They were accompanied by their niece, Jacquelin Tull, and Mr. Leonardy's sister, Mrs. W. W. Gibson and daughter, Marian, of San Diego. They started over the Santa Fe to Chicago, visiting in Detroit and Ohio points.

From Ohio they drove a Packard eight, visiting Chicamagua. Crossing the Ohio river, they breakfasted in Illinois, dined in Kentucky, and took their supper in Tennessee. They visited the battlefields of Chicamagua and Lookout Mountain and then drove back to Cave City, Kentucky, spending a day exploring the Mammoth cave and also the cave where George Collins was executed.

At St. Louis, Illinois, the party visited two weeks as guests of Mr. Leonardy's sisters. Another stopping point was Mt. Clemens, where they enjoyed a pleasant fishing expedition on Lake Erie and visited Windsor, Canada. They returned via the Rock Island to Denver and Salt Lake city.

Mr. Leonardy reports business as steady throughout the east and predicts a heavy tourist travel to California for the coming winter. He has returned much improved in health and greatly benefited by the vacation.

Returning Fire Fighters Praised For Good Service

The great fire in the Tejuca canyon, which last week threatened the Pasadena watershed, has been extinguished, and the last of the Covina men returned from the fire line on Tuesday.

Covina sent in all fifty-two men, and these with the crews from the other surrounding towns of the valley have been highly commended by Federal Forest Supervisor George W. Cecil and the Forest rangers for the efficient service which they rendered. They were all seasoned men and experienced fire fighters.

The local government agent, Al Marshall, and his able assistant, Frank Stokes, who represented the Angeles Forest Protective association, have been highly commended by all for their efficient manner in which they handled the difficult local situation, in the securing of men and supplies. By some uninformed persons an erroneous report has been circulated that the government agent receives from one to five dollars for every man sent to the fire. His only remuneration is five dollars a day, for one hour or twenty-four, as his duty demands during times of emergency.

NEW RECTOR EXPECTED TO ARRIVE ON FRIDAY

Rev. Kain, the new rector of the Holy Trinity church, is expected to arrive Friday from Hutchison, Kansas. His mother, Mrs. Kain, arrived on Thursday last week from Sacramento, accompanied by Miss Bursley, and has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Evans.

Lieut. Kain and his wife, brother of Rev. Kain, also arrived this week from China on their way to Philadelphia and have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Evans. Lieut. Kain and his wife and mother and Miss Bursley spent a few days in the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker at Balboa beach.

Upon the arrival of their furniture from the east, Rev. Kain and his mother and Miss Bursley will occupy the rectory, which has been newly decorated and prepared for their arrival.

DOWNEY BANKER CAUGHT IN DRY RAID NET

The following story of local interest, is taken from the columns of the Los Angeles Times of Monday:

Arthur L. Darby president of the First National Bank of Downey, was among the prisoners taken in Chief Enforcement Officer George Contreras's week-end dry raids, according to Contreras's report. He was charged with possession of fifty gallons of moonshine whiskey.

According to Contreras, Arthur Attridge had previously been arrested for possession of liquor in the same place, a garage, and fined $750, but Contreras said he learned the liquor really belonged to Darby. Darby was taken before Justice Wilson at El Monte and released on $500 bail.

(Editor's note:—Darby has recently been active in the formation of the San Gabriel Water Protective association and is an official in the new organization. He was one of the principal speakers at the pre-organization meeting held in the auditorium of the Covina grammar school, occupying the platform with other local men prominent in the organization.)

Baldwin Park Fair To Open Labor Day With Local Display

The Baldwin Park fair is billed to open at 9 a.m., Labor day, Monday, September 7, and will continue throughout the week, closing September 12. After Monday the fair will open at 1 p.m. each day and close at 11 p.m.

This is a community fair, as the chamber of commerce, Civic club, Woman's club, Parent-Teacher association, Ladies' Aid, W. C. T. U., the various lodges and all other organizations have joined hands to put this fair over the top on a co-operative basis.

The exhibits will include agricultural, horticultural, poultry, rabbits, pigeons, dogs, a school exhibit, child welfare department, a six-day baby show, and a general mercantile and industrial exhibition.

Several special free acts will be given every afternoon and evening. The Palace of Mystery, the Spanish dancers and other high-class amusements will entertain the thousands of visitors expected.

One of the features will be the automobile show, in which there will be shown the latest models on Collins foot, which weighed only 27 pounds. They also visited Louisville and other Tennessee points, the automobile trip lasting ten days.

At St. Louis, Illinois, the party visited two weeks as guests of Mr. Leonardy's sisters. Another stopping point was Mt. Clemens, where they enjoyed a pleasant fishing expedition on Lake Erie and visited Windsor, Canada. They returned via the Rock Island to Denver and Salt Lake city.

Mr. Leonardy reports business as steady throughout the east and predicts a heavy tourist travel to California for the coming winter. He has returned much improved in health and greatly benefited by the vacation.

TWO COVINA BOYS WILL ENTER STANFORD THIS FALL

Ted Coman and Leslie Garner, both graduates of the class of '25 of the Covina high school, will enter Stanford this fall, the college opening the latter part of September. The boys were two out of eleven who passed the intelligence tests given by the university at Pomona last May.

John Smeltzer, Here Thirty Years, Dies at Glendora Home

John Smeltzer, a citizen of the San Gabriel valley for the past thirty-five years, died at his residence in Glendora on Sunday morning, August 23rd, after a brief illness of four hours. Following services held in the Brethren church of Glendora at 2:30 p.m., August 25th, conducted by Rev. G. H. Bashore, this well-known pioneer was laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery. A special selection was sung by a quartet from the church. The pallbearers were Messrs. L. D. Netzel, John Netzel, Malon Brumbaugh, John Zug, William White, and David Zug.

Deceased was born in Hamilton county, Indiana, June 24, 1844, and was in his eighty-second year. On November 26, 1865, he was married to Mary E. Himelick and with his family moved to Monroe county, Iowa, about 1870. Here they remained until 1891, when Mr. Smeltzer removed to California, purchasing a ranch on Glendora avenue, in the Charter Oak district.

Mrs. Smeltzer, the mother of his three surviving children, Joseph Smeltzer of Long Beach, Mrs. Nora Kellum of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Emma Carter of South Pasadena, died in 1902. On May 17, 1906, Mr. Smeltzer married Mrs. Maria Shively of Rockford, Illinois, who, together with the children, mourns the loss of a loving husband and father. Seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren complete the family circle.

The pioneer home in Glendora avenue was sold in after years, and another ranch purchased on Bonita avenue, where deceased lived until five years ago, when he removed to 622 Vista Bonita avenue, Glendora. Mr. Smeltzer was a man of sterling worth, and a staunch member of the Brethren church since the age of twenty-one. He had served the church of his choice as a deacon for forty years, and it was fitting that his many friends should have an opportunity to gather in the church, which he had so faithfully served, to pay a loving tribute to his memory.

Covina Makes First Return in Funds For Santa Barbara

The first return for funds to rehabilitate that city from the effects of the earthquake, our quota being $607.00. However, the committee in charge had but $582.00 to turn over, which means that Covina has failed so far to go over the top to the extent of $25.00. It is believed that parties who have not been solicited will gladly make up this small amount and help Covina retain its unusual record of liberality. An appeal is made by the committee that funds to be applied on this amount be left with the cashier of either the First National bank or the Covina National bank, within the next few days.

DEVELOPMENT GROUP
MEETS IN WHITTIER

The regional advisory council of the California Development association met in Whittier on Saturday. J. L. Matthews of this city represents the eastern portion of Los Angeles county on the board. Conditioned upon the appropriation of an equal amount from state and county funds, delegates to the association went on record in favor of a bill which would provide a federal appropriation of $1,000,000 to protect the watersheds of Southern California.

The industrial committee of the council, which will meet next in Pasadena on October 17, was instructed to ask the United States board of mineralogy for a report on the mineral resources of Riverside and San Diego counties. Delegates from seven counties attending the conference were the guests of the Whittier chamber of commerce.

Taking Beach Front

Those who are spending the summer months at the beaches oftentimes include busy men of affairs from inland cities whose powers of thinking have been so attuned to their surroundings that they are unable to give up their analytical powers even though they are off for a few weeks' rest and recuperation.

It is through ideas expressed by these men of affairs that a serious problem is brought to the attention of Californians in general. And that question is this: If private ownership of the limited beach frontage continues to grow as it has in the past few years, what will eventually become of the playgrounds of the west coast?

Right now there are many of the most desirable beach frontages of past years occupied by private property owners, and this condition is becoming alarming. Except for the small frontages occupied by the beach cities, the grand old Pacific is being rapidly closed off from the general public. While this condition is being bemoaned, there is nothing being done to remedy it.

Perhaps the surest and safest cure would be the condemnation of privately-owned beach frontage and its dedication to permanent public enjoyment. Each year that such condemnation proceedings are delayed the cost mounts higher and after a few years it will become prohibitive. It was only a few years ago that vacant lots along the beach could be purchased for a few hundred dollars and now the cost is up in the two figure thousands. Think what the increase will be in a few years!

It is this thought that is giving vacationists who think quite a little concern. For years these men of affairs have been going to the beaches and year by year they have marked the encroachment upon their beach playgrounds without thought of the future, but now that the comparative smallness of the bathing beaches with the wide expanses of the past brings a realization that a continuation of the purchase of beach frontage will soon shut off the playgrounds altogether, they realize that some drastic action must be taken to avoid any such calamity.

For years the real estate men have been urging the people of California to buy beach frontage owing to the limited amount of coast property, and that their advertising has been effective goes without saying when the higher prices and recently purchased property are taken into consideration. It was not very many years ago that the beach frontage north of Santa Monica was considered far too distant for any improvements, but with the coming of the Pacific Palisades a few years ago and the opening up of a few tracts in that region the beach frontage immediately became valuable, thereby turning another piece of coast property into valuable beach frontage.

This same development has been noted all along the coast, and many of the most attractive camping and fishing spots have been secured by private interests. Those who see these encroachments bemoan the fact, but nothing definite is done to save the playgrounds. It would seem that the time is now ripe for the beach cities to take action in extending the confines of their municipalities along the shore line as a protection for the future years. Incidentally, such action would be a good business investment.—Colton Courier.

The Day of Rest

Rochester Sentinel: Man wisely sets apart one day in seven as a period of rest and change. Sunday is the day to emerge from the rut and groove of life and do something different. The successful farmer periodically renews the soil. The horticulturist feeds and waters the roots of his plants. The motorist cannot run his car unless he recharges his battery. All life has a tendency to run down if not recreated. Perpetual motion does not exist anywhere. Purely as a matter of health and mental hygiene, Sunday is an incomparable boon, a means by which tired nature may pause and take a fresh start. Make Sunday a rest. To do so does not mean to permit the day to go to seed through inactivity. It is the common pleasures that should be put aside, and something uncommon taken to fill their places. Going to church is the real rest for mind and soul. The real Sabbath breaker is the rest breaker. Life is exhausting as it stands. Why take the seventh precious day to further complicate matters? This applies to the man who takes his business problems home with him for settlement or solution over Sunday. It applies to the student who pores over his lessons on the Sabbath. It applies to the home-maker who employs the seventh day to catch up with the interrupted work of the week. Efficiency experts have proved that a man can do as much work in an eight-hour day as he can in a ten-hour day. The two extra hours are not productive hours due to the bodily and mental poisons of fatigue. It is simply efficiency then to use the previous seventh day, set apart by common consent for rest and renewal, and live up to its finest possibilities. Emulate the famous lord chancellor of England who used to throw off his robe at the end of the week and say, "Lie there, lord chancellor," and go home to his family and his hobbies. The man who works seven days a week is not getting anywhere. Nor is he adding a dollar to his bank account that will not be demanded of him sooner or later to pay damages for a broken contract with nature.

Driven to Death

There are 240,000 deaths in this country every year due to "hurry, bustle and incessant drive," says Dr. William S. Sadler. He calls this disease "Americanitis," which leads to high blood-pressure, apoplexy, heart disease, Bright's disease, or nervous disorders.

Other nations are not so subject to this disease. The British, nearest to us in relationship, assuredly are not.

Americans must "slow down their bodies and calm their nerves," says Dr. Sadler. The English do that. As a rule, they live a more leisurely life than Americans. They take things easier. They seldom drive themselves or allow themselves to be driven, as Americans do. And on the whole, they seem to get along just as well as our hustlers. Possibly they get along better, when the real values of life are considered.

When you spray with VOLCK the windward corner of your grove becomes as thrifty and productive as any other part. The hot winds that sometimes cause so much damage, cause you little concern. For VOLCK eradicates Red Spider and with it Red Spider Wind Damage.

The spider has no chance to sap the vitality of the leaves and the winds find the trees sturdy and vigorous, much better prepared to withstand the drying burning effect than trees where pest control has not been attempted or where other methods or materials have been used.

VOLCK kills the pest in all stages of development from the egg to the adult, and the trees remain free from spider over a surprisingly long period. We have been in groves where after spraying with VOLCK spider has not reappeared in more than a year's time.

VOLCK not only kills Red Spider, but all varieties of citrus scale including mealy bug and gives thoro clean-up in one application. It should be applied now while the Black Scale is young and the work can be done at least cost. VOLCK can be applied in warm weather when other materials would be out of the question because of the danger of burning.

Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

WALNUT CROP MUST IMPROVE—THORPE

That a better quality of walnuts must be produced in California and at the same time that production must be increased, was emphasized in his recent talk before the farm bureau walnut field day at Chino, by Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the California Walnut Growers association.

"Competition with European nuts necessitates improvement in the quality of American walnuts," he stated. "While production in those countries is not increasing, importers are erecting plants with up-to-date equipment for bleaching and grading, and nondescript European nuts are being graded and branded in such a manner as to come into active competition with our own product."

According to Thorpe, practically one-third of the state's total walnut acreage is in full production; one-third in partial bearing, and one-third, non-bearing. Within ten years he anticipates that the state's crop will be doubled. This together with stiff competition of foreign product, may affect market prices so that only the most efficient growers producing the heaviest yields per acre will be able to weather the storm.

He urged the attention of the growers to the thinning out of crowded groves, and the intelligent study of soil moisture conditions as the things which reflect directly upon quality and quantity of the crop.

COOKING DEMONSTRATION ATTENDED BY HOUSEWIVES

A rare treat was in store for the housewives who accepted the invitation of the Southern California Edison company to attend the lecture at the Woman's clubhouse Tuesday evening. To watch the preparation and cooking of a meal in a scientific manner on Westinghouse ranges was interesting, and to test the results a delight. An electric toaster was given away, Mrs. W. W. Bennett being the lucky party whose card was drawn.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT CROP NOT PROMISING

The outlook for the production of oranges and grapefruit in Florida next season is not favorable, according to the July report of the federal bureau of crop estimates. A distinctly light crop is promised from early bloom, taking the citrus belt as a whole, and there is but little indication that late bloom will develop enough fruit to overcome the shortage.

The condition of citrus fruits improved slightly during the last month but it is not up to usual at the present time, it is stated.

Pointer for Those Who Seek Knowledge

Once upon a time, according to an old story, a young man went to Socrates, the Greek philosopher, and said: "Sire, I come to you in search of knowledge. I have heard much about you, and have come a long way to find you. Will you not tell me how I can gain knowledge?"

Socrates said, "Follow me." The youth followed Socrates to a body of water and was surprised to see him wade into it up to his waist. He followed him and Socrates grasped him by the arm and head and thrust his head under the water. He held him there until it seemed the youth must surely perish. He dragged him to the shore and waited for the youth to catch his breath; then said: "My boy, what did you most desire when I held your head under the water?"

The youth replied: "Air." Socrates said: "Go your way and remember that when you want knowledge as much as you wanted when you were under water, you will get it."—Forbes Magazine.

One Place Where Rat Is Not Thought Pest

A deity whose name is Ganesha is worshipped by the Hindus. Because Ganesha is always pictured riding on a rat or attended by one, the rat receives part of the homage directed to the god. For this reason many rats live in state in the temple at Deshnoke, India, where there is an old and interesting shrine erected to this mythological god.

Pilgrims prostrate themselves before a group of rats, which have no idea of life beyond that of eating everything available and keeping a safe distance from cats and hawks. But they represent the rat god, Ganesha, and the temple in which they live is sacred on account of their presence. It is even called "the Rat Temple."

According to Hindu mythology Ganesha was the lord of the Ganas, who were a group of inferior deities. Ganesha removes obstacles. He is propitiated at the beginning of any undertaking. He is particularly endowed with wisdom and judgment.

Scholars on Strike

Strikes are not a modern trouble. One of the earliest and oddest strikes on record is that which took place in Oxford, England, in 1208, when, in consequence of a peculiarly outrageous aggression of town upon gown, masters and scholars to the number of 8,000 "downed tools" and retired in high dudgeon to adjacent centers of learning. The schools were closed, the city was laid under an interdict, and the trouble only ended five years later—in the complete humiliation of the erring burghesses, who were compelled to do public penance and accord large privileges to the university. When the offended clerks finally ceased to return, the "blacklegs," who had continued to lecture in defiance of the will of the majority, were punished by three years' suspension.

Early Adding Machines

That the ancient Inca civilization in Peru possessed an adding and calculating machine has been revealed in the recent discovery by excavators of a knotted cord, or "quipu," in the ruins of a prehistoric tomb. The cord is sixteen yards long and contains 100 knots. Divided into ten unequal sections these knots represent the odd numbers from one to nineteen. The sections are of different colors. In addition, red, brown, yellow, blue and green, and are separated by silver beads, which represent the even numbers from two to twenty. By using this simple way of counting, based on the decimal system, rapid calculations can be made.—Montreal Star.

How Cannon Are Spiked

In former times when the old-fashioned type of cannon was used the guns were disabled by driving an iron spike into the opening at the breech through which fire was communicated to the powder. This was called "spiking" the cannon. It was done when it was necessary to leave the guns behind, to prevent their immediate use by the enemy. Such disablement was usually only temporary. The phrase, however, is retained in modern military usage. Spiking a cannon nowadays means breaking or carrying away part of the breech mechanism, making it impossible to use the gun without considerable repair.—Exchange.

Beggars' Trade Union

In China one of the most formidable trade unions is that of the beggars. Begging in that country is a recognized profession, and there is a properly organized guild of beggars in most districts.

Each guild has its own president and officers, and the members pay an annual subscription equaling about $4 in our money. The officials of the guilds wield such power that they enjoy the protection of the magistracy.

So far there has been no strike on the part of the members of this union, which is undoubtedly the quaintest organization of its kind in the world.

"The Mills of the Gods"

This is an old Greek aphorism taken from the "Oracle Sibyllina." The original, literally translated, reads as follows: "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind small." Longfellow, in translating it, inserted the word "exceeding" and made it read: "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small." The same thought is found in Plutarch and other ancient writers.—Exchange.

Inventor Had Taken No Chance of Losing

Surely, the Scotch are the most tolerant people in the world, as they bear the brunt of most of its so-called humor. But there is considerable basis for the well-circulated theory that the Scot is canny. Here is an authentic yarn, vouched for by Harry Furniss in his "Some Victorian Men" that illustrates the point.

When Bessemer, the genius who gave to steel his name, came to make his discovery public, he put a lump of the famous steel in his pocket and made his way to Nasmyth, of steel-hammer fame.

Placing the lump on Nasmyth's desk, he told him that he had made an extraordinary discovery which would revolutionize the whole metal world. Then came a little incident which shows what wonderful heads these Scotch financiers possess. What do you think Nasmyth said to this excited inventor?

"Oh, mon, it's very risky to show your wonderful invention. The world is very dishonest."

To which the inspiring inventor replied: "Right, Mr. Nasmyth, I just calculated whom I was coming to see, so with my last half-crown I registered the invention on my way."

Lenny Really Didn't Know Weight of Hog

If old Lenny Foskett was anything more than deliberate, he was exasperating. He moved, spoke and lived at his own sweet will, and no one had ever been known to budge him. He came into the village store one morning, threw down a pound on the bench in front of the counter and announced that he had just killed his prize hog.

"Guess how much he weighed, boys," he drawled. "Two hundred and seventy-five," ventured one of the loungers. Lenny shook his head.

Others offered suggestions; the guesses grew so brisk that it began to sound like an auction. All sorts of weights were given, but to all of them Lenny merely shook his head. The others began to lose patience. From mere curiosity they began to long passionately to learn the weight of the hog and pass on to another subject.

"Well, for heaven's sake, how much did your old hog weigh?" somebody demanded. "We've guessed every figure possible! How much did he weigh?"

Lenny yawned. "Hi—hum, I dunno," he drawled. "I ain't weighed him yet."—Youth's Companion.

Man-Made Earthquake

It is believed that the numerous small earthquakes recently reported from the Midlands of England are due to the handwork of man. In excavating for coal and iron the miner cuts away millions of tons of rock and coal and piles it on the surface, thus setting up all sorts of stresses. In July, 1913, dwellers near the coast of Carmarvonshire were startled out of their sleep by loud subterranean rumblings, while the earth quivered over an area of many square miles. It was found that a considerable area of land lying between the Rhyls, granite quarries and the shore had started to slide seaward. The fact was that the waste of the quarries which for years had been dumped on this lower ground, had proved too much for it, and had set the whole ledge sliding, producing a very good imitation of a real earthquake.

Tree-Climbing Fish

In India there is a fish known as the tree-climbing perch. Technically the scientists call it "anabas testudineus scandens." By means of its fins and gills this fish can travel overland from one body of water to another. Its breathing apparatus is adapted for life out of the water. Stories about this fish's climbing trees should be taken with liberal portions of salt. The United States bureau of fisheries informs us that these tales of its tree-climbing propensity "are heritages from early travelers and are largely mythical." However, the climbing perch has been known to work its way upon stones and inclined tree trunks. This is as close as it ever comes to climbing trees.—Exchange.

She Wanted a Change

Betty had only lately been instructed in the matter of evening prayers, and her performance was exemplary until the occasion when she startled her father with the petition: "Bless Thy little pig tonight!"

She was reminded that the correct word was "lamb," but refused to return to orthodoxy.

At last, when pressed for the cause of this stubborn naughtiness, she replied that she was tired of being a lamb. "Every night," she protested, "it has been lamb, lamb, lamb! So tonight I'm going to be a pig, and tomorrow night I am going to be an elephant!"

Gelatin as Food

The potential energy of gelatin is calculated to be even more than that of some fats and albuminate, and yet in the body it is very inferior in the production of energy. It cannot, therefore, take the place of proteins for growth and repair and must be regarded solely as an albumin sparer. Neither can it replace albumin, the loss of which still goes on to some extent even when gelatin is eaten in large quantities. It is used in the body very much like the carbohydrates and fats, i. e., not as a tissue builder, but as a fuel food.

"A Little Learning, Etc." Some people imagine there's nothing more to learn. They know it all and cannot be told anything more. They not only stand still, but they don't go forward, but, awakened to this fact, blame the world instead of themselves. They don't know enough to place blame where it belongs.—Grit.

COVINA CONTAINED IN GIGANTIC COUNTY SEWER PLAN

COUNTY'S NEW SEWER SYSTEM. Bids were opened this week for a portion of Los Angeles county's new Metropolitan sewer. Already $10,000,000 has been voted by some of the districts, with others to follow with approximately $15,000,000 more.

Bids were opened this week for a portion of Los Angeles county's new Metropolitan sewer. With that official action, first construction in the huge sanitation program providing trunk lines and an ocean outfall will be undertaken. Already five of the county districts, under supervision of County Sanitation Engineer A. K. Warren, have voted $10,000,000 for the program. Other districts, being formed and which will shortly hold their elections, will swell that total to approximately $25,000,000.

Southern California thus sets out in the construction of what has been termed one of the world's greatest sanitation ventures. Not the least remarkable thing about the entire program is the element of time within which the project has been accomplished. Two years ago the state legislature passed a measure making it possible for communities to form as sanitation districts and join in the construction of trunk line sewers having a joint outfall into the ocean. The plan was conceived by Engineer Warren and in the two-year period, Monday marks the commencement of first construction. Five districts already have voted their bonds and four other districts are yet to vote. These latter two territories where sewers are essential and stretch from Glendale on the east to the sea. District 7, now being formed, contains eighteen cities and communities of the San Gabriel valley, with other districts bordering on Hollywood and in the south part of the county, notably the harbor district.

In construction of the project, Engineer Warren has estimated that two years will be consumed. When completed, therefore, the total elapsed time from the first state law passed to final completion of a $25,000,000 project will be approximately four years. That record in public attainment is heralded as remarkable. The bids to be opened this week call for construction of the trunk lines beneath the Union Pacific crossing on the Anaheim-Telegraph road. Next week will be opened bids for the construction of a trunk line along Atlantic avenue in the city of Maywood. Work is being done in these instances at this time ahead of street improvements which have been voted. This foresight will prevent the tearing up of new pavement for sewer work.

The outfall will be located at White's Point, far out at sea, where currents will pick up the discharged water and carry it to mid-ocean. No sewage will be delivered into the Pacific until it has been screened at a plant for that purpose near the outfall. Solids will be carried on barges fifty to a hundred miles out to sea or will be incinerated.

The harbor district associated chambers of commerce got behind the project when first presented, backing it solidly with every measure of ability. Since that time the associated chambers of commerce of the San Gabriel valley have taken action fostering formation of district No. 7, and are making every effort to carry the coming election for bonds.

"Los Angeles county is taking a progressive step in the building of these sewers second to no section of the country," declared J. L. Matthews, president of the San Gabriel valley group. "The problem of sewage is solved for our generation, at least, and we will all benefit from a health and material point of view. Property values in those communities where the bonds have been voted jumped immediately after the election."

"The cost of the sewers, based on assessed valuation of the districts joining in its construction, is far below any other method yet devised for this problem. Treatment plants, sewer farms and the like are not for a country which has the ocean near at hand."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Mr. Frank Parsons and sister, Ruth, of Los Angeles, formerly of Ohio, were callers at the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. J. McConnell on Monday.

Mrs. C. R. Pool and two children, Bertha and Styron, are spending a two weeks' vacation in Riverside, where Mr. Pool is at present fumigating.

Word has been received from Grace Dean Outland, who has been spending the summer in Cleveland, that she left that city the 24th of August and expects to be home early in September. She will stop in Modesto to visit her brother and his family before returning to Covina. The annual old folks' picnic that is looked forward to by all the old young people over seventy will be held September 5th, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. Anyone over seventy is eligible to attend this picnic that is held annually on the first Saturday in September.

California Preparatory School for Boys Will Commence Construction in October

Architectural sketch showing the plans for the $250,000 new school buildings. Construction will start early in October.

With the return from the east this week of Mrs. J. H. Henry, president of the California Preparatory school for boys, plans will be rushed for the construction of the school's new buildings on the hundred acre estate southeast of the Covina city limits.

The school, formerly known as the Pasadena Military Academy, is one of the nation's leading private educational institutions. Its growth in Pasadena has been so remarkable as to necessitate construction of larger quarters in the foothills near Covina. The estate commands a view of the San Gabriel valley and will be the location of buildings costing more than $250,000. Rudolph Meyer, of Los Angeles, is the architect.

C. M. Wood, superintendent of the school, made it very plain that plans for removal would not in any way deter the program this year at the Pasadena location. "The construction program as outlined by Mrs. Henry makes it possible for us to continue, not only unhampered, but with even new facilities here," declared the superintendent. "Enrollment this year has exceeded any period in the history of the school and the arrival of students from all parts of the United States and even Europe indicates the splendid reception accorded a change in the curriculum of the school."

The San Gabriel valley, as a center of first rank private schools, has attained national attention this year. The Girls' Collegiate school, formerly of Los Angeles, has constructed more than $300,000 in buildings at Glendora.

Scale Extermination Will Be Discussed at Meeting Tonight

This (Friday) evening, August 28, at 7:30 p.m., a meeting of the Covina farm bureau center will be held at the auditorium of the grammar school on Citrus avenue.

The pest control season is now on and some growers have already fumigated or made their first application of spray material.

"What shall I do this year?" is a question frequently asked. Mr. Woglum, entomologist for the California Fruit Growers Exchange, and Horticultural Commissioner Ryan will be on the program. Mr. Woglum and Mr. La Follette have made a close study of the scale situation in this valley during the past two years and have some definite recommendations. Mr. Ryan has comparative figures for the valley which give the results of control work for the last year or two.

All growers and others interested are invited.

Zerolene "F" for Fords gets to all the parts where oil is needed, especially the wrist-pin bearings and the upper half of the cylinder walls, which are frequently "oil-starved" when an unsuitable lubricant is used.

Zerolene "F" for Fords is made by the Standard Oil Company's patented vacuum process. It deposits a minimum of carbon.

Horsemanship Thrills Mark Frontier Film

The most thrilling headlong ride that the cattle country of southern Arizona has ever witnessed was taken by Paramount's company of daring cowboys during the filming of Zane Grey's frontier romance drama, "The Light of Western Stars," which will be shown tonight (Friday) and tomorrow at the Covina theater. Jack Holt, Noah Berry and Billie Dove, who are featured players in the production, said they had never seen anything to equal it for sheer horsemanship.

James Cruze, who has gathered a goodly number of laurels during his distinguished directorial career, reaches a new high-water mark in comedy productions with his latest Paramount cinema opus, "Marry Me!" a rural romance, adapted from the highly successful stage play, "The Nest Egg," by Anne Caldwell. The picture will be shown in Covina Sunday and Monday nights. Gales of laughter greet this film wherever it is shown.

When Cosmopolitan published William MacHarg's "Wine," the magazine furnished the basis for a wide discussion as to whether or not the story constituted an indictment against the laws, or an indictment against those who break them. Universal has made a screen version of the story, which will be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

EUROPE LOOKING HERE FOR THEIR ORANGES

Throughout Europe there is a strong increase in the demand for citrus fruits, particularly oranges, and Southern California Valencia have the market well in hand, according to a report to the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange made by Dana C. King, orange sales agent, who recently returned from an inspection tour of the United Kingdom and Continental European markets.

Upon arrival in Liverpool Mr. King found Southern California fruit in excellent condition and being distributed between Glasgow, Manchester, Birmingham, Hull, Leeds and Liverpool. Some of the fruit was transhipped to Hamburg, Berlin and Copenhagen.

Mr. King reports a certain market for California navel oranges in Europe in the face of extremely heavy receipts from Spain, Jaffa and other Mediterranean producing districts.

Returning to New York, Mr. King was struck by the fact that many of those who were actively speculating in foreign lemons at the time of his departure were facing losses, in one instance as high as $250,000. Both California and eastern deciduous fruits were selling in New York at relatively low prices and excellent foreign lemons were selling from push carts as low as a cent apiece.

During his stay in New York a conference with the sales manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange developed the fact that next year's Florida citrus crop will probably be 15 to 20 per cent less than last year.

DEPARTING PASTOR AND WIFE TENDERED PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. George Shepard and their sister, Mrs. Laura Ebbs, gave a very enjoyable surprise party Monday evening for Rev. and Mrs. Porter, who were recently moved from the pastorate of the Free Methodist church of Covina to San Bernardino. On the pretext that they were needed on important business, the worthy couple were greatly surprised to find half a hundred friends waiting to greet them on the lawn of the Shepard home at 247 Italia street. Welcome sandwiches were served during the evening. Mrs. Porter was presented with a purse of $10 as a token of appreciation for her untiring work in the church, even though she had been ill a greater part of the past few months.

ANNUAL W. C. T. U. PICNIC IS HELD AT COMAN HOME

According to the custom which has been followed for several years, the local white-ribboners gathered for their mid-summer meeting at the Coman home last Friday, where the big porch gives an ideal warm weather gathering place. A vivid report of a local bootlegger trial with its resulting sentence and the pouring into the gutter of twenty-three bottles of booze added to the interest of the morning session. Some twenty members enjoyed the cafeteria luncheon, served on the porch, a special feature of which was the writing of favorite recipes, which were then drawn by lot, to be taken home as a souvenir of the pleasant day.

In the business hour, preceding the afternoon program, it was decided to have the state officers here for a general conference upon methods of work, Friday, Sept. 11, with the afternoon meeting at the Methodist church, to be followed with the now famous "bootlegger trial" in the evening, probably at the grammar school auditorium. Everyone is urged to keep the date, Sept. 11, free, from 7:45 to 9:30, since the mock trial, put on by four of the state officers of the organization, assisted by considerable local talent, is one of the best and most entertaining programs ever put on by the W. C. T. U., rivaling in its humor and dramatic interest the old-time minstrel show Covina white-ribboners put on some years ago. Indeed, the state treasurer, who takes the part of the unfortunate bootlegger, was one of the famous Gold Dust twins in that former entertainment.

Last Friday's program was a review of the recent world's convention held at Edinburgh and attended by over six hundred accredited delegates from thirty countries. Over a thousand women came from a distance to attend the enthusiastic five days' meeting. A gain of over 70,000 members throughout the world was reported, steady gains in law enforcement and prohibition sentiment shown, educational work being strengthened, generous contributions everywhere for the continuance of the work, and an enthusiastic determination to "carry on."
